of franchise conferred on us by the constitution of the United States is sacred and favoidable; but it is not respected as such in some parts of this great country. The democratic party declares for purity of the ballot in its platferms and then distransionally as well as the poor houses of the country. Those heroes who fought for our country and ballot in its platferms and then distransionally as well as the poor houses of the country. Those heroes who fought for our country and saved it deserve the best we can give them thises whole communities and seizes while living, and when they pass away thereby that power which rightfully they deserve, not to lie in pauper's graves.

twenty-one representatives, which are chosen by the people. In some states certain classes of people are not allowed to participate in this selection of representatives, being either driven from the polls or intimidated from attending an election. How would you like such an exhibition of brute force in Clark county? Would you not soon rise in and assert your rights and demand that in Clark county? Would you not soon rise anything to the party but praise and comup and assert your rights and demand that mendation. Let our appeals be made to major McKinley could not reach the city in time for the afternoon meeting, but that tried and true old veteran, General Bill Gibson, ably seconded by the Hon. William H. Kooniz, of Pennsylvania, entertained the crowd which was gathered on the square. General Gibson's exposition of the square. General Gibson's exposition of the square. General Gibson's exposition of the gaivantages of the protective tariff was so clear that a child could understand it, and at the same time his argument was too formlable to be overthrown.
